
Finding: 92% of road deaths fall in low- and middle-income countries; the surveyed literature thins out exactly where that burden sits (Global South, mixed traffic, deployment logistics are absent from the taxonomy altogether).